

Imagine this picture without a signature!

Like a work of art, without proof of authenticity your brand may lose half its value.

Your name stands for quality. But more than that, it stands for trust. The trust customers place in your products. We want to help you retain that priceless trust and protect the unique quality of your brand. All our broad-based expertise has gone into developing anti-counterfeiting technologies that effectively combat product piracy. On your behalf, we carry out in-depth analyses of your processes and detect dangerous vulnerabilities wherever they occur: in production, logistics or distribution. Then we devise customized security solutions that implement a brand protection strategy tailored to your specific needs. Because our name stands for security. And has done for 150 years. After all, bank notes printed by our company are used in roughly 80 countries around the world. Find out what we can do to protect your branded products by ordering our special brochure "Brand Protection" free of charge from our website at www.gieseckedevrient.com.
